COLORADO COLLEGE ALMA MATER

(O Colorado College Fair)
Words and music written in 1953 by Charles Hawley '54 and Professors Earl Juhas and Albert Seay

O Colorado College fair,
We sing our praise to you;
Eternal as the Rockies,
that form our western view;
Your loyal sons and daughters
will always grateful be;
The college dear to all of our hearts
is our C.C.

O Colorado College fair,
Long may your fame be known;
May fortune smile upon you,
and honor be your own;
Our Alma Mater always,
Your loyal children we;
Together let us face the future,
Hail C.C.

THE COLORADO COLLEGE HYMN

"St. Anne"
William Croft (1678–1727)
(Selected Stanzas)

---

O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home.

Time, like an ever-rolling stream,
Bears all its own away;
They fly, forgotten, as a dream
Dies at the opening day.

A thousand ages in Thy sight
Are like an evening gone;
Short as the watch that ends the night
Before the rising sun.

O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Be Thou our guide while life shall last
And our eternal home. Amen.

— Isaac Watts

NEAL A. BAER '78, LL.D. '00

NEAL BAER, M.D., is executive producer of the NBC television series "Law and Order, Special Victims Unit." Previously, he was executive producer for "E.R." for which he wrote scripts and developed medical stories. Baer was nominated for three Emmy Awards for producing "E.R.," and was nominated twice for writing the episodes "Hell and High Water" and "Whose Appy Now?" for which he received a Writers Guild Nomination. Among his other screenwriting credits is "Warriors," an episode of "China Beach," one of five scripts nominated by the Writers Guild of America for best episodic drama of 1990. He also directed and wrote the ABC after-school special "Private Affairs," dealing with sexually transmitted diseases, which was selected as the best children's drama of the year in 1990 by the Association of Women in Film and Television. He has written "The Doctor Corps," a feature film for Twentieth Century Fox, and "Outreach," a pilot for the WB Network.

Neal Baer graduated magna cum laude from Colorado College in 1978 with a bachelor of arts degree in political science. He holds master's degrees from Harvard University in education and sociology, and spent a year at the American Film Institute as a directing fellow. In 1996, he received his M.D. from Harvard Medical School. He received the Jerry L. Pettis Memorial Scholarship in 1994 from the American Medical Association as the outstanding medical student who contributed to promoting a better understanding of medicine in the media. He was selected as a Mass Media Fellow by the American Association for the Advancement of Science and worked as a television science producer.

Baer's primary medical interest is adolescent health. He has written extensively for teens on health issues for Scholastic Magazine, covering such topics as teen pregnancy, AIDS, drug and alcohol abuse, and nutrition. Prior to medical school, he taught elementary school in Denver and also worked as a research associate at the University of Southern California Medical School, where he focused on drug and alcohol abuse prevention and wrote a $3 million grant funded by the city of Pasadena's office of substance abuse prevention. He also teaches health communications at USC.

Baer serves on the boards of numerous organizations related to health care, including the Venice Family Clinic, the Grace Center of Pasadena, and the National Organization of Fetal Alcohol Syndrome (NOFAS). He is also a trustee of the Writers Guild of America Health and Pension Fund, and a member of the board of associates at the Whitehead Institute for Biomedical Research. In October 2003, he received the annual award of SHINE (Sexual Health in Entertainment), and the 2003 Valentine Davies Award for public service from the Writers Guild of America West.

In January 1998, he returned to Colorado College and delivered a lecture, "Power of E.R.: Medicine, Media, and Morality in America," followed by an annotated screening of the show's newest episode. His visit was sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities Professorship. In September 2000, Baer was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree at CC's opening convocation.

A Denver native and son of a surgeon, Baer and his family reside in Toluca Lake, California.

SUSANNAH HESCHEL

HANNAH SUSANNAH HESCHEL is one of the foremost scholars in the field of Jewish studies. The enormous range of her research encompasses subjects such as modern Jewish thought, Christian-Jewish relations, the history of anti-Semitism, Holocaust historiography, colonial and postcolonial theology, and Jesus as a Jewish historical figure, to name a few. Heschel has been a pioneer and the founder of several other scholarly areas such as the roots of Reform Judaism, Jewish feminism, multiculturalism within American Jewry, and most recently the studies of inter-relationship and tolerance between Christianity, Judaism, and Islam. In addition, Susannah Heschel is an internationally respected speaker and activist in issues concerning religion and politics, religion and the environment, inter-religious dialogue, tolerance, and civil rights. A member of the Council of the Parliament of the World's Religions, Susannah Heschel serves both as an ambassador of the Jewish people and the United States, next to spiritual leaders such as the Archbishop Desmond Tutu, H.E. Abdullah Omar Nasseef, and H.H. the Dalai Lama.

A descendant of an impressive lineage of Hassidic rabbis and Talmudic scholars, Susannah Heschel has distinguished herself not only through the sharp clarity of her thoughts and writings, but also through her incisive observations and originality. Like a well-trained Talmudic scholar, she re-examines the most ordinarily accepted "truth," placing huge question marks over conventional scholarly wisdom and ideas, and offering perspectives different from the prevailing ones in a perfectly convincing manner. The portrayal of Christian-Jewish relations over many centuries as a state of theological colonization, the re-conceptualization of Judaic studies through feminist and multicultural theories, the insightful study of women serving in the SS, and the ways in which gender is implicated when women commit atrocities. These are only a few among other research subjects, which Heschel has examined with tremendous intellectual breadth and enormous courage.

Susannah Heschel's research and activities have been greatly impacted by the legacy of her father, the rabbi and philosopher Abraham Joshua Heschel. The 1965 photo depicting the legendary rabbi marching alongside Martin Luther King Jr. from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama, with thousands of other supporters became an icon of moral and spiritual power in both Jewish and African-American communities. Walking in her father's footsteps, Susannah Heschel has published extensively on the special relationship between the reverend and the rabbi, and the affinities in their theological thought. However, Susannah Heschel has spread her energy far beyond the safe walls of the academic ivory tower. Through her worldwide actions in pursuit of justice, truth, and civil rights she has made this world a better place for many.

If the pen is mightier than the sword, then Susannah Heschel is a courageous warrior. In her books she frequently points out intellectual distortions and long-standing injustices. While doing so she also reveals the path to intellectual honesty, justice, fairness, and ultimately to understanding, reconciliation, and tolerance among dwellers of our planet. It is a great honor for me to present Susannah Heschel for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

— Ofer Ben-Amots

ROY R. ROMER

AMERICANS OF A CERTAIN AGE, if they participate only casually in America's public and symbolic life, should be forgiven if they confuse Roy Romer for that Hollywood hero of the West, Roy Rogers. Roy Romer's boyhood home of Holly, Colorado, just up the road from Buckeye and east of Granada, surely makes our Roy a man of the West. He received his BA from Colorado State University in 1952 in agricultural economics and later became Colorado's commissioner of agriculture. He is a man of the soil. He received his law degree from the University of Colorado. He is on the side of the law. He studied ethics at Yale. He is on the side of right. And like Roy Rogers, Roy Romer won. A Republican-leaning Colorado elected this Democrat to govern it three times. Absent term limits, he might be our governor today.

Like his alliterative and metric counterpart, Roy Romer has ridden many noble political steeds to countless rescues throughout his life. He served in the Air Force, as a military prosecutor, in Germany in the 1950s. He served in Colorado's legislature from 1958–1966. He was Colorado's state treasurer for a decade. In the 1990s alone Roy Romer chaired the Democratic Governors' Association, served on the politically sensitive Bipartisan Commission for the Reform of Entitlements, co-chaired the 1996 Clinton-Gore reelection campaign, and, from 1997–2000, served as the general chair of the Democratic National Committee.

In his 72nd year, at an age when nearly all of us live in a tranquil retirement, and the bulk of those who don't are dead, Roy Romer rode out on his greatest rescue mission. In June of 2000, he accepted the Los Angeles City Board of Education's offer to become the superintendent of schools of the Los Angeles Unified School District. The board has renewed his contract twice, extending his term until 2007, one year short of his 80th birthday. Under his leadership, voters in his school district have approved school bond funding totaling $7 billion, the largest school bond issues in American history. The program, currently underway, to build 160 new schools in the district, is the largest such construction project in the nation. New literacy and math programs, which include computer-based learning programs and hundreds of instructional coaches for teachers themselves, have raised the math and reading scores in many of Los Angeles' schools above the national average for the first time in decades.

Since ancient times it has been said that we must distinguish between people of thought and people of action, that somehow thought and action get in each other's way. Roy Romer gives the lie to the ancients. This man of thoughtful action is not simply a credit to the American West, he is a national hero.

KAY DEEN PATTERSON

Colorado College honors Kay Deen Patterson for a life of extraordinary accomplishment and devoted service.

Kay Deen's roots were in Eldred, Illinois, where she grew up on a family farm. The importance of place guided her development until she left home to attend MacMurray College for Women in Jacksonville, Illinois, earning an AA. In 1955, she married Everett R. "Bud" Patterson, whose service in the United States Air Force took them on a sojourn that involved living in 18 homes in 21 years. Her children, Kevin Patterson and Michelle Patterson Noyes, and her grandchildren serve as her greatest legacy.

Ironically, this woman who would become known as a real-estate "superstar" did not own her home until 1967, when she and Bud moved to Colorado Springs. While her husband served our country in Vietnam, Kay Deen began her career in the male-dominated field of real estate at a time when most women were secretaries rather than licensed sales agents. Patronized by her boss and underestimated by her colleagues, Kay Deen surprised them all, becoming the top sales associate in her company in her first year. Her career quickly moved from promising newcomer to real-estate legend. Awards from the Pikes Peak Association of Realtors included Salesperson of the Year, Classics, Diamond, and their Distinguished Sales Award. Nationally, she has been recognized multiple times as one of the top ten agents for Prudential Real Estate System and as one of the top 100 U.S. agents by Realtor Magazine. She has served as a "superstar" panelist for the National Association of Realtors, sharing her wisdom with upcoming professionals. In 1986, she and her husband founded their own company. Today, Prudential Professional REALTORS employs over 180 people and is ranked among the top 250 real estate companies in North America.

One could argue that Kay Deen's stellar success grew out of her commitment to serve in whatever manner she was able, finding customers homes, jobs, financial assistance, and offering a kind gesture at every turn. Her commitment to service goes far beyond the world of real estate. She donated her time and expertise to public service, bringing her sense of style and knack for hospitality to the place she loved so dearly. The Benet Hill Center Advisory Board, Colorado Fine Arts Committee, Colorado Springs Ballet Advisory Committee, Colorado Springs Economic Development Corporation, and the Community in Schools Program are just a few of the sites for her volunteer activity. She also served as a sponsor for the Electric Safari at the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo, Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Golf Tournament, and Newborn Hope.

Kay Deen Patterson continued her service to her customers and the community even as she battled cancer in the final three years of her life. In 2004, she finished as the number-one realtor in Colorado Springs for the 35th straight year, selling $57 million in real estate while being named one of the 25 Most Influential Women in Colorado Springs. Colorado College is pleased that Kay Deen received news of her honorary degree a short time before her death in March 2005. Today, we celebrate her achievements, even as we mourn her loss.

THE COLORADO COLLEGE

WHEN A FEW brave and visionary men determined in 1874 to found a college in the shadow of the Rocky Mountains, Colorado was not yet a state; in fact, it was little more than an inhospitable frontier. Nonetheless, on February 4, 1874, the Board of Trustees adopted a charter establishing "The Colorado College," and stating that the board's purpose was "to locate and maintain at Colorado Springs under Christian auspices an Institution of Learning on the college or university plan."

The college officially began with 12 students and two instructors meeting in a three-room frame building in the 200 block of North Tejon Street. Student assemblies and daily prayer meetings were held in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church next door.

But the institution's stability was far from assured. In fact, the college's first president, the Reverend James G. Dougherty, said, "The trustees looked around for someone who had wit enough to see the fading possibilities of a college and not wit enough to perceive the great hindrances to success."

In fact, the hindrances turned out to be considerable. When there was not enough money for the president's salary, Dougherty resigned, and within weeks, a large party of Ute Indians, en route from their mountain reservation to a buffalo hunt, were encamped on the four-block square that had been set aside for the campus.

The setback, however, was only temporary. In 1876, Edward Payson Tenney was offered the presidency of the "suspended" college, on the condition that he be responsible for raising the money to cover all operational and instructional expenses of the institution and not "place trustees of the college under any financial obligation." In his book on the history of the college, former Dean of Men J. Juan Reid writes that when Tenney received the invitation from the college to be its president, he retired "deep into the Cape Anne woodlands near his Massachusetts home to pray for divine guidance and specifically, that Henry Cutler, a well-to-do deacon of his church, might become the divine instrument for putting new life into Colorado College." Apparently, Tenney's prayers were answered because Cutler consulted with officials of the American College and Education Society, and he and four other Congregationalists from the Boston area agreed to finance the operational expenses of the college for one term on a trial basis.

In September 1876, the college reopened with 30 students and then embarked on a campaign to raise funds for the construction of a permanent college building.

General William Jackson Palmer, founder of Colorado Springs and a trustee of the college, spoke at the groundbreaking for the new building on July 4, 1877. "In breaking this ground," he said, "let us set apart and forever devote it and the structure which is to rest upon it to the purposes of education, in the most unsectarian way, to the discovery and inculcation of the truth."

From that day forward, the college had a permanent home. The building was dedicated at the college's first commencement on May 31, 1882. On that day, two graduates received their degrees, Parker Halleck and Fredrick Tuckerman, and they were both required to give orations to the assembled gathering. After they had finished speaking about civil service reform and "A Popular View of Philosophy," President Tenney delivered a commencement address that lasted an hour and fifteen minutes.

Halcyon days followed. On April 12, 1883, in the first intercollegiate football game played west of the Mississippi, the college team defeated the team from the University of Denver 12-0. Following the game, Denver University accused the college of using "ringers," and the college admitted that they had played five of the best players of the Crowell Hose Company, one of the local volunteer fire departments.

In the years that followed, the college continued to expand, and buildings of peachblow sandstone grew up and formed the quadrangle. The same clear vision that went into creating the college was evident again when it became necessary to preserve the campus. William F. Slocum, the college's third president, refused to allow a local streetcar company to run its cars through the campus and insisted that the new science building be erected at the end of Tejon Street. When the City Council sided with Slocum, the owner of the streetcar company diverted what is said to have been "a substantial sum of money," once intended for the college, to other far less worthy purposes.

The more than 1,930 students currently enrolled at Colorado College are taught by 168 distinguished faculty members. The college's commitment to liberal arts and sciences education has remained steadfast since its founding in 1874, enhanced by a distinctive curriculum organization called the Block Plan. The college's twelfth president, Richard F. Celeste, presides over today's ceremonies.

General Palmer's vision of a school dedicated to "the discovery and inculcation of the truth" is in good hands.

A NOTE ON ACADEMIC COSTUME

THE ACADEMIC COSTUME worn by faculty gives commencement much of its traditional air of pageantry. With its long, flowing gown and brightly colored hood, the costume would seem to have been designed for just this purpose. In fact, academic costume was designed in the Middle Ages, when all students were clerics, with much more practical considerations in mind. The gown and its attached hood helped to keep off the chill in the unheated buildings of the day. Even the bright linings of the hood were chosen with the purpose of identifying the religious order to which the student belonged.

To the knowledgeable observer, American academic costume today can be just as informative about its wearer as it was in the Middle Ages. Based on the intercollegiate code established in 1895, each aspect of the costume, such as gown color, mortar-board tassel, and sleeve shape, indicates something about its wearer and the highest degree received.

The gown is usually black, although some universities have adopted a brighter color scheme. The color of the tassel can indicate the highest degree the wearer has earned; a doctor's cap, for instance, frequently bears a tassel of gold. The sleeves are even more informative, with long pointed sleeves indicating the holder of a bachelor's degree; oblong sleeves, a master's degree; and bell-shaped sleeves, a doctor or specialist. The doctor can be distinguished from the specialist by the three bars that adorn the sleeves of the gown.

With its brightly colored lining, the hood is the outstanding feature of the academic costume. The color of the lining indicates the college or university that has granted the degree — Colorado College hoods, for instance, are lined in gold. Each hood bears a border whose color is determined by the degree the wearer has earned. So, a doctor of philosophy's hood will always have a border of blue, regardless of the field studied.

Among the institutional colors that may be seen at today's commencement are the following: University of Alaska, gold, violet chevron; Arizona State University, maroon, gold chevron; Bryn Mawr College, gold, white chevron; University of California, gold, blue chevron; University of Chicago, maroon; University of Colorado, gold, silver gray chevron; Columbia University, light blue, white chevron; University of Connecticut, royal blue and white; Cornell University, red, two white chevrons; Dartmouth College, Dartmouth green; Duke University, royal blue and white; Harvard University, crimson; University of Illinois, dark blue, two orange chevrons; Indiana University, crimson, white chevron; Johns Hopkins University, dark blue, gold chevron; University of Kansas, red, blue chevron; University of London, maroon, gold chevron; University of Maryland, black, gold chevron; University of Michigan, maize, azure blue chevron; Massachusetts Institute of Technology, bright red, silver gray chevron; Northwestern University, purple, gold chevron; University of Notre Dame, gold, royal blue chevron; University of Oregon, gold, green chevron; University of Pennsylvania, cardinal, blue chevron; Princeton University, orange, black chevron; University of Rochester, gold and blue; Stanford University, cardinal; University of Toronto, scarlet, two white cords; University of Virginia, blue, orange chevron; University of Wisconsin, bright red; Yale University, dark blue.
